

Save the world... and encourage others to help!

In The Seismic Seven, Bri and her friends must make a video asking for help to save the world. While in real life we thankfully do not need to stop a supervolcano, there are a lot of ways our world does need help. Create your own video or design a poster to ask for help about an issue important to you!

Steps:

1. Think about a problem in the world and how you would like to see it solved.
2. Come up with a list of three actions people could do right now to help.
3. Make it eye-catching! If making a video, consider what props you could use to help discuss the problem and solutions. If making a poster, think about what pictures and colors you could include.
4. Put it all together! Create your video or poster with the above three things in mind: describe the problem, give people actions they can take, and design your video or poster in an interesting way.
5. With adult permission, share your creation in your community!
